Preface.

The Department for the Publication of Sanskrit Manuscripts was organized in the beginning of 1084 M. E., with the object of publishing the ancient and rare Sanskrit manuscripts in the Palace Library, and also of preserving and publishing such of the rare Sanskrit manuscripts as are in the possession of ancient families in the State.

Twelve works have hitherto been published under the title of "The Trivandrum Sanskrit Series", and seven others are now in the Press.

Without prejudice to my duties of preparing "Press copies" for publication, rare manuscripts are being collected from private libraries in different parts of the State. The manuscripts examined and selected therefrom are taken with the owner's permission, on condition that they should be returned to them on demand or after use. The manuscripts thus obtained are transcribed in paper in Devanagari character, and after comparing with the originals, are duly returned to the owners. From such of the manuscripts as are duplicate copies of works already procured or found in the Palace Library, variants are noted before their return. The following is the list of private libraries visited up to the end of 1086 M. E.

Of these, the first four libraries contained a good number of manuscripts worthy of selection and it is from these libraries that a large number has been obtained. 22 out of 40 manuscripts selected from Manalikkara Maṭham and 44 out of 66 selected from Kailasapuram Govinda Pisharodi were lent to me for a limited period only by the respective owners, the rest of the manuscripts selected being promised to be lent later on. All the 37 manuscripts selected from the library of Panthalam Palace, and the 52 from Idappalli Maṭham, were obtained on loan.

Among the manuscripts collected, there are some valuable works, the discovery of which gave me no less delight than surprise, and a brief account of these is given below.

From the library of Manalikkara Maṭham, a volume of palm leaf manuscripts was obtained containing some Sanskrit plays written in ancient Malayalam character. The manuscript, apparently more than three centuries old, was well preserved, except the first 12 leaves parts of which were worn out. The language of the plays is at once simple and elegant, and the vigorous style and the lofty ideas entitle them to a prominent place in classical literature. Unlike the works of Kâlidâsa and of the later dramatists, the name of the author or of the work is not found in the preludes, while the colophon gives merely the following names of the works.

1. Svapnanâṭaka.
2. Pratijnânâṭika.
3. Pancharâtra.
4. Daridrachârudatta.
5. Dûtaghaṭotkacha.
6. Avimâraka.
7. Bâlacharita.
8. Madhyamavyâyoga.
9. Karṇabhâra.
10. Ûrubhanga.

At the end of the volume was attached, a fragment of a eleventh play running up to half of the second page. Two more works of the same kind were obtained from the library of Kailasapuram Govinda Pisharodi, their colophons, i. e. अभिषेकनाटकमवसितम्, प्रतिमानाटकमवसितम् respectively showing the names of the works.

In Svapnanâṭaka, the first of the group, a description of the scene of Vatsarâja's vision regarding the heroine, Vâsavadatta, suggested to me that the work may in all probability be the same as Svapnavâsavadatta, an ancient dramatic work known by name through some authors who have quoted it. As for the author of Svapnavâsavadatta, there is no difference of opinion that that was written by the poet Bhâsa to whom Kâlidâsa † refers, in his "Mâlavikâgnimitra" as one of his illustrious predecessors, and whom Bhatta Bâṇa, in the introduction of Harshacharita praises* with unstinted admiration. So great was my regard towards these works, that I thought of publishing them without any delay. But to my disappointment, portions of the first 12 leaves of Svapna(nâṭaka)vâsavadatta were eaten off, and two other works were incomplete. The printing of these works, therefore had to be postponed until other copies of them could be procured from elsewhere. Many of the Sanskrit scholars in India as well as in Europe were addressed in the matter; and no pains were spared in the attempt for procuring complete copies of the works. From the replies of one and all of them, I had the satisfaction to know that the manuscript in my possession was a unique copy of the works of Bhâsa which are believed to have been lost beyond recovery. But, fortunately sometimes afterwards, Srîmân Anantâchâryar of the Archæological office, Mysore, was able to find out an incorrect but complete copy of each of the works, Svapnavâsavadatta and Pratijnânâṭika and he was also kind enough to send me a copy of these works taken in Telugu character. This gentleman when he visited Trivandrum last year, happened to peruse the manuscripts of Bhâsa's works in my possession, felt more than myself the want of a complete copy for the printing of Svapnavâsavadatta and the two other works, and was, ever since, with unabated industry searching for a complete copy in those parts. The colophon of one of the copies i. e., "स्वप्नवासवदत्ता समाप्ता" confirmed my suggestion regarding the real name of the work, while that of the other i. e., "प्रतिज्ञायौगन्धरायणं समाप्तम्" brought to light the real name of that work. Thus, two copies of the works, Svapnavâsavadatta and Pratijnâyaugandharâyana were obtained, and with the help of the two copies a complete copy of Svapnavâsavadatta was made. All the twelve works have been taken up for publication and a detailed account regarding the works and the author will be given in the introduction of Svapnavâsavadatta.

A descriptive catalogue of manuscripts collected up to the end of 1086 is herewith attached.
